

THE RALLY

McKinleyites To Be at Drillshed.

PARKER WILL SPEAK

Time Under the Auspices of the Young Men's Republican Club.

HE IS NOT REGISTERED

B. F. Dillingham May Withdraw.

HE RETURNS TOO LATE

He is now in California and Does Not Arrive Until October 26th.

The Republican Central Committee is in something of a quandary in regard to the nomination of B. F. Dillingham for senator. Mr. Dillingham is at present on the Mainland and he is not expected to return to the Islands until October 26. According to the election laws of Hawaii to be eligible to the position of senator one must have the same qualifications as a voter for senator and among these qualifications is included that of being registered as a voter.

Mr. Dillingham had not registered when he left and as the books of the Board of Registration close on October 26th Mr. Dillingham will not be able to register when he returns. A strict interpretation of the law would make him therefore ineligible to the senatorship. On Saturday evening the matter first was brought to the attention of the Central Committee and it was at once considered by the committee and it was at first decided to hold a special convention for the purpose of filling the place of Mr. Dillingham on the ticket.

At a session of the Republican Territorial Central Committee yesterday morning at headquarters, however, a committee of three was appointed to ascertain from the Attorney-General whether the name of Mr. Dillingham as a candidate on the Senatorial ticket, would be permitted on the ballots. A. G. M. Robertson, A. V. Gear and Lorin Andrews were appointed on the committee.

If an adverse opinion is rendered it will be necessary to call another session of the district convention or else to let the Central Committee nominate a man for the position. This course is often followed by the National political parties when a candidate is forced for any reason to withdraw his name after the convention has been held.

NEW COMPANY FOR NATIONAL GUARD

Much Enthusiasm at Organization of Company E on Saturday.

There was much enthusiasm at the organization of Company E of the National Guard of Hawaii at the Drill Shed on Saturday evening. Despite the heavy rain of the early evening there were fifty-three men enlisted, examined and passed as the charter members of the company. Major E. Oscar White was there to swear in the new soldier boys, and to superintend the election of officers. This resulted in the election of Nahoru Hipsa as the captain of the new company, Joseph K. Maui as first lieutenant, and Thomas Kakalia as second lieutenant.

At the conclusion of the election Captain Hipsa addressed the members of the new company at some length in Hawaiian, urging them to do their duty by the new company, and by the National Guard, to attend regularly at drills, and to make Company E one of the best organizations in the First Regiment. Major White also spoke briefly, his remarks being interpreted in Hawaiian by Captain Hipsa. He said that he was much pleased with the turn out of men. He hoped and felt sure that the new company would be recruited to its full strength in a short time, and he urged the men to take interest enough in the new company to attend regularly at drills. Another point to which he said much attention should be given was that of marksmanship. The new ranges would soon be completed, and then it would require but little practice of the right kind to make the company as good marksmen as any other company in the guard.

SAILOR BRADFORD TELLS HIS STORY

He Maintains That Frank Turk Robbed Him of His Bag and Chest.

William Bradford, able seaman, who was the complainant in the larceny case against Frank Turk, which was dismissed in the Police Court on Saturday, says that the facts of the case have not been properly presented in the local journals.

Bradford asserts that last Friday Turk came to him and asked him for the key of his chest. Bradford told him not to touch his things until he gave him permission to do so. After being paid off on the same day Bradford says that he sought out Turk and paid him six dollars that he owed him for the loan of five dollars, and the use of a bed for one night. When he had paid Turk the money, Bradford says that he took a boat and rowed to the quarantine wharf to get his chest and bag, but found, on arriving, that Turk had been there ahead of him and had departed with the property. The same afternoon Bradford says that he met Turk in town and asked him to return his property, whereupon Turk told him to meet him at his house in half an hour. When Bradford went to keep the appointment Turk failed to put in an appearance. The next morning Bradford says he again went to Turk and demanded his clothes and was told that he would have to pay two dollars expended in fetching them before he could have them.

Bradford says that Turk denies having repaid the money loaned. Peter Ball, John Ford, whose chests and bags were also taken by Turk under conditions exactly similar to those in Bradford's case, corroborate the latter's statement.

REPUBLICANS TELL OF GREAT PARTY OF OUR GLORIOUS LAND

they would vote—for Wilcox or the Alkaner? For the Alkaner," was the answer. There was much applause for W. C. Achi when he had concluded, and the Republicans felt happy that they had scored so successfully over an audience almost wholly ruled by the Independents.

FRANK ARCHER ELOQUENT.

F. K. Archer was introduced next by the chairman as one of the successful young Hawaiians. Mr. Archer spoke slowly and distinctly. He kept the attention of the audience throughout his address. Mr. Archer said, "You can tell the tree by its fruit. In this way only can we tell whom to trust and whom to disregard. I warn you, do not listen to men who say they love you and yet cannot provide you with your needs when you ask for them."

"Wilcox was seven years in Italy. During that time he studied the tactics of militarism. But it is strange to say he is not leading the people in the right way. He has done nothing but create disturbances in the country which has been at the expense of your country, and resulted in the loss of your independence. Can we depend on such a man?"

"In the days gone by I was a man who lived with the sovereign. When the election days came he warned us what to do. I often repudiated this request because my conscience did not approve of it. I studied for myself and voted for the man whom I saw most fit. That indeed should be the policy of every voter today. Do not vote for men who cannot support themselves, but beg of you old men and women for their bread. Vote for such men as W. C. Achi, a man who by the sweat of his own brow, and intelligence, can earn a living without being dependent. There are such other men as he whom you see today, supporters of the Republican party."

"Remember, we have the sovereignty in our hands—the right to vote. Fellow-citizens, if we use it foolishly, there is fear of losing that right."

Mr. Archer, by his carefulness and eloquence, won over the audience. His expressions can not be fully expressed here in English, but the audience was quick in detecting the meaning. In closing he said, jokingly: "I am stumping for these people today, but at the next election I may be one of the candidates."

WM. AYLETT SPEAKS.

Wm. Aylett, one of the representative candidates of the Fourth District, was the next speaker. He said:

"This is the time to work rightly. We have today the Territory. The next thing we want is to secure Statehood. You know that President McKinley is a Republican. Is it a good policy, although we know the fact, to remain Independent. Is a party that is not encouraged in the United States, and a party that would not readily gain the sympathies of either the Republican or Democratic administration? It is only wise that we vote for Hon. Sam Parker as Congressman, a man who is a close friend of the President and a man well known in the United States. Wilcox cannot accomplish as much as he for the benefits of our wharves, roads, etc. It is not only perhaps on account of his party, but his acquaintance also would tell."

At this point Mr. Aylett related of his old days as an Independent and his travels to the United States. He told it most interestingly and with an earnestness which won for him merited applause. This address seemed to cast aside much of the conservatism of the natives present.

He said: "I was an Independent. I composed the Aloha Aina song. After the dethronement of our Queen I awaited the day of restoration, but only in vain. Whenever a steamer came from the Coast I was one of those who always went down to the wharf to find out the news. On reaching the wharf the first thing I did would be to ask for the news about the Queen's restoration. I would meet Enoch Johnson and he would tell me 'Remain as you are.' Again and again this happened, yet to no avail."

"I also led the Hawaiian band to the United States. I discerned the character of the people. The Democrats dislike negroes. If you are riding in a train, you would have to be in the negroes' quarters. Would you like to do this?"

PAHIA'S WISDOM.

Mr. Pahia, the deputy sheriff, then spoke briefly, as follows: "You all know that I am a candidate on the Republican Senatorial ticket. I will resign soon as I am elected as Senator for your benefit, and mine. If you are going to vote for me, I ask you also to vote for my colleagues. If you should do that, we would all work harmoniously. 'Birds of the feather would flock together.' This is the only way we can accomplish anything."

After Pahia's remarks the chairman announced the important points of the platform, and after this he said, "Will you vote for the Republicans?" "Yes," was the loud cry from all. "If so," said the chairman, "let us give three cheers for the Republicans."

Three cheers were rendered and a successful meeting for the Republican supporters came to a close at 5:30 o'clock p. m.

THE WAILUA MEETING.

At Wailua court house there were present Hon. Samuel Parker, W. C. Achi, George R. Carter, J. L. Kikilau, L. L. McCandless, Enoch Johnson, Frank Archer, Judge Mahaula, W. W. Goodale, Dr. Hubert Wood, Sheriff Cox and others. Judge Mahaula opened the meeting and introduced Hon. Samuel Parker as the first speaker. He spoke as follows:

PARKER'S SPEECH.

"Fellow-citizens: I have the honor to be the nominee as Delegate to Congress for the Republican party."

"About eight years ago I came down with the Queen and spoke to you as a Republican. I suppose you know that Prince David has been nominated as the Democratic choice for Congress. Two-thirds of the members at Congress are Republicans. Is it not, then, better for you to vote for a Republican Congressman? It is not because I want to go for my own interest, but it is for the interest of all."

"The Territorial Delegate will have no vote. He can speak, however, and bring up the various bills he may have."

"During my last visit to the United States I asked President McKinley if Government lands could be divided and distributed to the people. The President answered: 'But all the Government lands are under the plantation.' I told him that I had immense Government lands in my possession on the Island of Hawaii. If a law could be passed to that effect, I would very willingly return that land to the Government, that it may be distributed to the poor. (Applause.) So before I left during my last visit, preparations were on the way to send a commission here to consider the question. But I warn you to send a Republican Congressman. If you vote for a Republican Congressman you better also vote for the Republican candidates for the next Legislature. Again as for your Congress and shows the results of protection to your great industry here—sugar. When I came here in 1882 the plantation was yielding about 1,000 tons. The coming year it proposes to make about 25,000 tons of sugar. No man ever expected to see these lands planted with cane. The natives refused to give much for the lands. Lands which were considered worthless years ago, now bring big figures. Why is so much land being cultivated here today? It is because we have a Republican party to protect our sugar interests and give us a good price for it. The Republicans look after home industries. The policy of the Republican party is protection. The Republican party has governed in the United States since the time of Lincoln continuously to the present day with the exception of two Presidential terms. Each time the Democratic party was in power there was poverty in the land."

"This is not the first time we have met the Independent party. We have had it here before. We have known what the guidance of Wilcox in political matters means to the country. It was a series of revolutions which culminated in the appearance of Robert Wilcox on the political stage. One of the revolutions laid some of your Wailuans in the grave. Wilcox is always telling the people yarns. Are you going to send such a man as Wilcox to Washington represent the Territory of Hawaii and its affairs? I don't think you will. The Independents will go so far as to say that the Democratic party has done everything for Hawaii that is good. I say they have not. If you want to get anything from the United States you will have to go to the Republicans for it. We want a cable; we want the Nicaragua canal; we want our harbors improved. An Independent Congressman from Hawaii will not have the support of the Administration. If there are Republicans in power at Washington and Hawaii sends an Independent Congressman, he will be ignored. Send a Republican Congressman. He will be in line with the administration and will probably make for him all the money that is available. If one man is not satisfied and goes into a corner to have a luau all by himself, he will have no friends. It is the same as sending an Independent to Washington. He will be put in a corner by himself and will have nothing in common with the rest of the Congressmen there. I think you people ought to have the confidence of placing your legislative affairs in the hands of the Republicans. The candidates on the Republican ticket will look out for the interests of the community at large. Some of us were in the Legislature two years ago. We will look out for all. You will never be sorry if you vote the Republican ticket."

W. C. Achi, Enoch Johnson, Judge Kaukoku and Frank Archer spoke along the lines of their addresses at Wailua. The meeting was brought to a close by a few remarks by Judge Mahaula.

The entire party returned to Honolulu on yesterday morning's train.

CUT HIS HEAD OFF.

Japanese Falls Under Train at Wailua and is Instantly Killed.

A fatal accident happened at Wailua plantation yesterday of which Yamashita, a Japanese who came to the plantation recently to secure work was the victim. Yamashita was riding on one of the plantation trains which was switching about just above the mill with coal cars, shortly before noon. He was evidently a green hand on the cars for while the train was going slowly along he suddenly slipped between the cars and was run over.

Some of the hands on the cars saw him fall and signalled at once to stop the train. Several ran back to where the Japanese lay and it was found that the train had run squarely over his neck decapitating him completely.

Yamashita was not known at the plantation for he had only recently come to Wailua from Honolulu. He is believed to be a single man.

Good music and rousing speeches will draw the crowds to the Republican rally at the drill shed at 8 o'clock this evening.
